Letter of endorsement for Professor Lorenzo IMBESI

Lorenzo Imbesi has been the president of Cumulus since June 2022 and a member of the Executive Board for 4 years before that, from 2016. In these many years, he has served the Cumulus community in an exemplary fashion, he has been an effective voice and a strategic thinker about the future of the association and helping to realize its potential for its members. As our Cumulus website states, the association is acts “both as a compass and our North Star, our mission, vision and values represent what we stand for and where we want to go in the future.” Lorenzo embodies this mission and, together with the Board, helps the Association strive to develop this collective and individual future.

The field of design and its academic practice will be crucial as the opportunities for design emerge. Design will take a large role and express its potential in diverse ways. An Association such as Cumulus must support our diverse global community. Its President needs to be someone who understands this diversity and the local opportunities as well as our collective potential. Lorenzo Imbesi has been an effective ambassador for design during his time as president of Cumulus and he will serve us well for another term.

We endorse Lorenzo Imbesi for re-election as president.
